HAYING AND HARVESTING TOOLS, For sale by H. W. CORBETT & CO.

Spirit of the State Press.

Under the caption of "Practical Issues for Oregon Democrats," the Albany Journal presents some facts against that party in a very forcible way. We quote:

Divested of party ties, if one or more in Oregon were to proclaim that they were against railroad improvements in the State; against manufacturing establishments; against wool growing; and in favor of reducing the price of labor two-thirds below its present rates, they would be denounced as enemies of their State and race, and would scarcely be tolerated to reside within its limits. The Democratic creed contains all these conditions toward our State; yet because allied with platitudes about the "unconstitutionality" of the Union party offending their prejudices by its course during and since the war, the Democrats swallow the whole dose, and stand upon a political platform which must hand the State of Oregon, more than any other section of the nation, into general impoverishment, and keep both people and State in that condition.

The Journal continues its argumentum ad hominem in this style:

No Democratic principle has been oftener reiterated than that it is "unconstitutional" to appropriate national aid to such an enterprise as the building of a railroad up the Willamette valley; and no one dreams of the completion of such road without the aid of Congressional appropriation, such as is now helping to build the great overland road. Democracy would prevent this upon principle; yet they have two sure modes in their party platform to effect the same preventive result. Their free-trade theory would lead the nation so near pecuniary attenuation, that there would be nothing to appropriate; and their threats about repudiating national bonds, and indeed the whole debt, would prevent the issuance of any for aid of the Willamette road; and if issued, they would bear slight value in the monetary world, if Vallandighams and Brick Pomeroys ever get hold of the national government.

We are glad to observe that the Republicans in some parts of the State are vigorously at work organizing the party. Their activity in Polk county is especially noticeable. We should be glad to hear that the like was being done in every county. The Unionist has the following remarks on this subject:

Our adversaries are gathering and drilling their forces in all quarters, and if we expect to be successful, we must begin work with a like promptitude and equal resolution. There is no time to be lost; the campaign has actually begun, and the enemy are on the march. Let us not lie in camp, then, with a foolish self-confidence, but set out at once in the wise belief that the contest is going to be hazardous and uncertain, and that victory will belong to that party which shall have ... the ... and ... determined effort for success. A wise general never undervalues the strength and fortitude of the enemy, but goes into battle as though he believed that all men were heroes. We must therefore bear in mind that the Democratic party in Oregon has been greatly animated, by recent success, in a neighboring State and elsewhere, and will present a well organized and formidable opposition. Having thus viewed our opponents in their strongest aspect, and taken the ... of the strong side of the citadel, let us begin to advance with a corresponding resolution. The Copperhead party of Oregon can and shall be overthrown.

The Review has an article on the same subject, which ... that the Republicans of Douglas county will not prove recreant. It says:

We know the ... of a political party to the Government when we see the standard bearers of that party all through the land, men who ... who threw every obstacle in the way to ... the Union ..., and who now propose the most disgraceful repudiation of the nation's debt to its heroic defenders. The ... of the Government is known by his past and continued adherence to the doctrines on which the late wicked rebellion was founded by their love of treason and hatred of loyalty. We can afford to lay aside all minor considerations, and buckle on anew the armor of Union and justice in political, as we did in martial array but yesterday.

The Democratic papers received this week contain little that is worthy of notice,—by which we ... that there is in them very little of the flavor of the ... "lost cause" Democracy. On the subject of taxing bonds they are utterly non-plussed, or, "in short," as Micawber would say, "... ." They all seem, as by common consent, to be letting the ... question rest for one while, probably under the impression that the ... "Professor" of the Courier in his last article gave his party such a "boost" ahead of the "nigger" that they can all venture to take a respite of a fortnight, under the impression that it will take the negro at least that long to come up with them. But, we may expect to see the contest renewed very soon, when the competition between the negro and the Democracy will, without doubt, be quite as animated as ever.

South ... Freedmen.

The ex-slaveholders and their political allies have insisted, from the time that general emancipation seemed probable, that the negro population of the South would rapidly decrease, because of their thriftlessness, whenever they should be released from the system of compulsory labor. It has been claimed, since the close of the war, that there has been an actual decrease in the aggregate numbers of this class. To settle the question authoritatively, Col. J. W. Forney recently addressed a note to Gen. O. O. Howard, at the head of the Freedmen's Bureau, asking for such data on the subject as might be at the General's command. General Howard responded promptly, exhibiting the following facts, which we have condensed from his letter: In 1840 the negro population of the Southern States numbered 2,487,455; in 1850, 3,204,313; in 1860, 3,053,587. From 1860 to 1866, the number is of course necessarily estimated, but is believed to have been 4,428,017—an increase of 474,480. Of the general conduct of the freedmen since their emancipation, Gen. Howard bears this testimony:

One of the best arguments against the theory of gradual extinction, based upon the alleged thriftlessness of the freedmen, is found in the fact that despite the terrible drought of 1866 and the consequent failure of crops and discouragement of farm laborers, and despite the damaging rains and the overflow of the Mississippi valley during the present year, the cotton crop of 1867 is estimated by high authority at 2,200,000 bales, being nearly two-thirds of the largest crop ever produced; and the grain crop is double any ever before raised in the Southern States, while there has been a fair yield of rice, sugar and tobacco. This result has been reached chiefly through "free negro" labor, in defiance of many adverse circumstances, moral and material, consisting in part of outrages upon and spoliation of freedmen by the whites, while many of the large landed monopolists of the Southern States adopted the retrograde policy of letting their vast plantations lie fallow rather than employ the freedmen under contract at just wages.

THE NAVY.—In 1861, before the rebellion, our naval force was 69 vessels, mounting 1,346 guns, and 7,600 men. The increase of force was gradual and rapid till 1865, when it reached its highest point, namely, 688 vessels with 4,654 guns. Since the close of the rebellion, the force has been so reduced that there are now in the service but 2,351 officers and men, and 238 vessels—mounting 2,351 guns—249 of which are steamers and 38 sailing vessels. The iron-clad element of the navy consists of 63 vessels, mounting 195 guns of the heaviest calibre, principally fifteen-inch guns.

Our Russian Possessions.

WASHINGTON, November 6th.—The following letter has just been received at the State Department:

UNITED STATES LEGATION AT HONOLULU, August 22, 1867.

William H. Seward, Secretary of State. Sir: From paragraphs in the few newspapers which reach here, I am led to believe that the climate and resources of the Russian territory, recently purchased by the United States, are greatly misunderstood by some of the press and people of the Atlantic States. Many of the seamen who frequent these islands have made voyages to the coast and islands of Russian America for years past, and I transmit to you such limited information concerning the country, as I have derived from them, trusting that it may prove acceptable and hoping possibly to add to the information you already possess.

Captain Meek, an old New England shipmaster and one of the most intelligent men in this community, says that he traded with the natives of Russian America for more than twelve years. During that time he passed two winters in Sitka, and saw very little snow on the coast near the harbor during either winter. In one, the winter of 1828, none at all, although the mountains surrounding the settlements were covered. Rain fell through a greater portion of each winter and heavy fogs frequently prevailed. The winter temperature is not so low as at points on the Atlantic coast from thirteen to fourteen degrees south of the same parallel; and although no thermometrical record was kept by him, he believed the climate during the winters to be warmer than the average of Southern New York or Northern Virginia.

In the vicinity of Sitka fine potatoes are raised and all the other vegetables of the temperate zone. Barley is already cultivated and a little wheat, and all the other cereals could no doubt be cultivated to advantage. Kodiak is one of the largest of the islands and the best for all purposes. The soil is good, the country less mountainous and the cod and other fisheries extensive. On some parts of most of these islands and at ... cattle can be grazed for about nine months in the year. During three or four months they would have to be housed and fed. Grass is abundant in the localities fitted for stock and ... greatly rich and nutritious. The summers of the westerly islands are cooler than those of Kodiak or Sitka, on account of winds from the north, which ... blow with much violence. The forests on the main land are large, the trees of luxuriant growth and capable of furnishing an almost inexhaustible supply of ship timber. The fact that the coast and islands have many good harbors, makes this timber accessible and consequently valuable in the future. The country abounds in coal of a quality not known. The Captain has ... native copper, and there has always been a tradition among the traders that gold exists, although he has never seen any evidence of the fact. The natives are treacherous, warlike and acquainted with the use of arms. For many years one of the principal articles of traffic with them has been small arms and ammunition, so that they are nearly all armed with ... The fact that they are constantly at war ... has heretofore made them less troublesome to their civilized neighbors.

The voyage from Honolulu to Sitka has been made in ten days, and in the ... San Francisco under sail. Judging from the ... descriptions these men have given me, this country, taken altogether, is anything but the ... habitable, desolate, ... many newspapers I have read ... it to be; on the contrary it contains ... of ... miles of land as well adapted for cultivation and stock raising as many parts of the New England States. Its fisheries are rich and ... and ... only ... a ... and inexhaustible supply of ship timber which we will need to build up a navy and ... commerce on the Pacific, when the United States ... the policy you have so successfully inaugurated, will have become masters of the great ... of China and the East. It will furnish the birth place and nursery of a hardy and enterprising race of seamen, who will man our ships ... our commerce as superior on the Pacific coast as it once was on the Atlantic; and it will become to the Pacific coast what New England was to the Atlantic before her race of adventurous and intrepid seamen had given place to generations of thrifty manufacturers.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

EDWARD M. McCOOK.

THE PYRAMIDS OF EGYPT.—The New York Journal of Commerce says:

Men will never have done with discussing the origin and objects of the pyramids of Ghizeh. The latest work on the subject is from the Astronomer Royal of Scotland, Piazzi Smyth, who has published three volumes on the old discussion, containing illustrations and the results of personal explorations. There is much that is valuable in Smyth's book; but the strange theories which he supports, not altogether new, though in some respects so, are worthy of note as exhibiting the wildness which some times possesses human intellects. He seems to believe, and doubtless does believe, that he has discovered and settled the answer to the question which has puzzled the brains of men for so many years, "What was the object of the Pyramid of Cheops?" He supposes the word pyramid to be derived from two Coptic words—Pyr, signifying division, and met, signifying ten. He holds that the pyramid was erected as a grand standard of measure, especially measures of distance, but also of time. Taking the cubit as twenty-five inches, he affirms that the length of each base line of the structure contains as many cubits as there are days in the year, namely, 365. In the Queen's Chamber, the well known room in the center of the pyramid, he finds, as he supposes, a remarkable preservation of the Sabbatical week, as thus: The room has four sides, a floor and two ceilings, which he believes to represent six days, the sides, the floor and one ceiling containing by measurement 30,000 inches each, whilst the seventh contains 50,000, and represents the seventh or holiest day. These may suffice as specimens of the remarkable theories enunciated by the Professor of Astronomy in the University of Edinburgh. They are but a few out of many equally strange, and we note them as curiosities of the age. They will hardly be accepted as aiding Egyptologists in dispelling the darkness which hangs around the origin of the stupendous works of unknown ages, nor will they possess much value against the accumulated evidence that the pyramids were designed primarily, if not solely, for tombs.

The correspondent, at New York, of the Mobile Advertiser, relates the following of what he calls an "honest" cashier:

Not long ago the Cashier of a well-known bank informed the Directors that he wished to resign. He was supposed to be a poor man in a comparative sense, and they asked him if he could afford to resign.

"Yes," said the Cashier, "if I could not I would not."

"How is that? We thought you had nothing but your salary."

"Gentlemen," said he, perfectly cool, and frank, "I have used the money of the bank—used it liberally. But the bank has not lost anything. I saw changes, made the best of them, and returned every dollar I took. I have enough now, and want to resign. Have the books examined, you will find everything straight. It may have been wrong to use your money, but there's nothing lost, and it's not worth your while to make any trouble."

They did not make any trouble, and the lucky Cashier is now a member of the best society in New York.

FORNEY.—Speaking of John W. Forney, the Marysville Appeal says: "The country owes Col. Forney much for his services the past seven years. His heart has throbbed with joy at every victory, and never despaired at defeat. His two journals have exercised an immense political influence for the right, and the veteran editor deserves well of the Republican party and the country."

A SETTLER.—One of the most powerful ... is made use of against the amendment to the State Constitution in the late canvass in Ohio, was, "How would you like to be tried by a negro jury, and sentenced to the penitentiary by a negro Judge?" That terrified the Democracy, who voted against the amendment.

"DEMOCRACY," PURE AND UNDEFILED.—In a late number of the Old Guard (the publication which claims to be the only Democratic ... in the United States) an article is published headed "Lincoln and Davis," from which we make the following extracts. It is an incontrovertible fact that four-fifths of the Democratic party hold sentiments exactly in accord with those here given:

It is always ... evil ... there is an eternal accord ... the devil and his works, and so the ... Lincoln is the most ... of our race, so, too, the ... devilish that ever ...

On the contrary, the ... led by J. Jefferson Davis, is the ... true and glorious ... that men ever ... on this earth, and the ... Christian, and chivalrous ever ... history.

"Scaling the Debt."

It is a favorite argument with those who propose to issue greenbacks to pay off the national debt, that as the bonds were purchased at a time when their value was much depreciated, no injustice would be done by paying the holders in the manner proposed, since, under this arrangement, they would be paid considerably more than they gave for their bonds. This scheme is exactly a counterpart of one which was broached in 1790. As a large proportion of the debt incurred in securing our independence had passed out of the hands of the original holders, and had accumulated in the possession of a comparatively few who had bought up the certificates or bonds at low rates, a proposition was made to apply to these certificates the principle of a scale of depreciation, and to pay them at the rates at which they had been purchased by holders. This idea found many advocates, just as a similar idea in reference to the national debt finds many advocates now. The scheme at that time was called "scaling down the debt," and though it was pressed with vigor and importunacy, it signally failed. Our fathers refused to sanction any such disreputable plan of virtual repudiation.

Hamilton, then Secretary of the Treasury, in his report took decided ground against the idea, and supported his position by very able arguments. Though not overlooking the moral aspect of the question, he put his arguments against the proposition mainly on the ground of policy. In order to [illegible] these [illegible] emergencies to which, in the vicissitudes of affairs, all nations are exposed, public credit was absolutely essential. And public credit could only be maintained by the faithful payment of public debts, according to [illegible]. The nation had [illegible] to pay a certain amount of money to the holders of the certificates of indebtedness. These parties had exhibited their faith in the nation, had preserved the public credit from total extinction and had given ready money in exchange for a doubtful and uncertain claim. If the sums paid had been less in value than the sums purchased, that, the Secretary argued, had been a natural and inevitable [illegible] of the financial position of the United [illegible] it was uncertain whether the debt would ever be paid at all. [illegible] the subject in Congress [illegible] that no logic could [illegible] the obligation of the United States to pay the whole [illegible] and interest, as promised on the face of the [illegible] to make up to the [illegible] who had been paid in [illegible], had lost by the [illegible] and Madison [illegible] on another occasion said: "So far as [illegible] the debt, [illegible] But the debt due in gold and silver is not payable in honors, nor [illegible] provision was [illegible] not only for the payment of the general [illegible] but also for the payment of the State debts which, to the amount of $21,500,000, a very large sum for [illegible], were assumed by the General Government [illegible] was paid in gold.

This was the way in which our [illegible] tors who [illegible] a proposition of a kind with that which is now revived and [illegible] Cannot the [illegible] of to-day [illegible] as well as [illegible] of the Government?

[illegible] the enfranchisement of the [illegible] with the Radi[illegible] are [illegible] have not a very high [illegible] of intelligence, and that it would be better if they had [illegible] the negro [illegible] of the [illegible] majorities of certain [illegible] in the North, it [illegible] and virtue, the latter have no advantage over the former. Take the Democratic majority in New York city and compare it with the negro majority in South Carolina. The latter is [illegible] as intelligent as the former, and as well qualified to exercise [illegible] while it is a notorious [illegible] vice, crime, drunkenness [illegible] who [illegible] New York city than [illegible] the entire [illegible] a population of the Southern States. The Copperhead majority in New York city in November, reached the unprecedented figure of 60,467, the total vote being 11[illegible]. Of the Democratic vote, which [illegible] a total of 86,600, not less than 50,000, or a number almost [illegible] to the entire majority of the party in the city, was made up from the vilest [illegible] with whom the Hoqualmeny of our [illegible] people. [illegible] majority [illegible] from the purlieus of vice and dens of infamy, is paraded with exultation by [illegible] who with their next breath vilify the [illegible] of the South as being unfit to discharge the [illegible] in a popular government [illegible] has not the [illegible] but his quality [illegible] certainly are as good as are those of that class of Democrats who instigated the New York riots in 1863, and who regularly [illegible] the [illegible] of their party. As an abstract [illegible] may be unfit to vote, but [illegible] any [illegible] did persons who constitute the [illegible] we have [illegible] must acknowledge [illegible].

[illegible] do not always take the same view of events. Thus, President Johnson [illegible] by the Republican [illegible] four States are a [illegible] of the Congressional plan of reconstruction; but when three [illegible] as many States went against him last year, and in [illegible] every instance by heavy majorities, he would not accept the popular verdict as a condemnation of his "policy." Circumstances alter cases, and the [illegible] that is supposed to be aptly adapted to the [illegible] entirely with the Johnsonian gander. There is nothing left for it but to [illegible] the rub" next year, and then we shall rub out Democracy.

REGISTRATION IN NEW YORK.—The New York Tribune [illegible] to the honest people of the State in favor of such an [illegible] of the Registration Law of that State as would [illegible] longer time for the scrutiny and revision of [illegible] It [illegible] of fraud:

Here are three brothers O'Dowd, [illegible] Patrick in [illegible] lower three [illegible] in Water street, and Patrick in [illegible] and all active Democratic [illegible] living in [illegible] On the [illegible] they all, by precedent, [illegible] Ward from Terence's place [illegible] register in the Fourth Ward [illegible]; and on [illegible] day they [illegible] Ward from Patrick's [illegible] their voting [illegible] of their votes thrice each, unless the registration be [illegible] and the voters challenged?

The Registry is indispensable; but further time should be given for scrutiny and the detection of the frauds. To close the list at 9 P. M., on Saturday and open the polls at 7 A. M. on Monday, is absurdly favorable to [illegible]. Ten days are quite few enough for the proper examination of these lists, to the elective franchise, so as to preclude random challenging and afford opportunity for [illegible] frauds. Yet so long as one party is [illegible] to add at least eight hundred to its majority [illegible] every thousand illegal votes that may [illegible], and that party controls the judicial machinery of our city, it will be very difficult to secure any [illegible], thorough reform.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO DECEMBER 5.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The House galleries were crowded in expectation that the impeachment question would come up.

Cullum offered a resolution which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, with reference to naturalized citizens, declaring them entitled to the protection of the United States Government and that it is the duty of the President to see that naturalized citizens abroad engaged in lawful pursuits shall not be unlawfully deprived of their liberty, nor be subjected to military service.

The bill to repeal the cotton tax passed by a vote of 145 to 20.

The Speaker presented a number of communications on various subjects. Adjourned.

In the Senate, on motion of Sumner, the President was requested to communicate to the Senate copies of any correspondence of the Government with Great Britain relative to existing claims of the two governments against each other.

Drake offered a concurrent resolution declaring the course of the President in his annual message, in declaring the acts of Congress in relation to reconstruction, to be plainly unconstitutional in absence of any adjudication to that effect by the supreme judiciary, is a departure from official propriety transcending the just limits of his constitutional prerogative to give Congress information in regard to the state of the country, and justifies strong reprehension on the part of Congress. The resolution was ordered to be printed.

Anthony, from the Committee on Printing, reported in favor of printing the President's message.

Howard opposed it. He could not vote for printing and circulating what he considered a wanton libel on Congress, and an insidious invitation to the rebel States to use violence in resistance to its reconstruction policy. It was unconstitutional and revolutionary.

Considerable discussion followed, pending which Trumbull introduced a bill making five judges of the Supreme Court a quorum, which was passed.

After other unimportant business the Senate went into executive session.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The President has furnished the Senate with copies of the Motley-Seward correspondence; Motley denounces the charges against him as false and the work of calumnious informers.

The report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue gives the receipts as $265,920,478, of which $57,000,000 are from the income tax, and $29,000,000 from the tax on distilled spirits. He opposes the removal of the tax on liquors.

The French Minister gave a grand diplomatic dinner to-day. Seward and all the European Ministers were present; also the chairmen of both Committees on Foreign Affairs.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The Times' special says Gen. Steedman is dangerously ill from an attack of apoplexy.

Mr. Wilson has introduced a bill in the Senate declaring a majority of votes cast sufficient to call a convention in the South. Under the present law a majority of the registered voters is required.

A Republican [illegible] last night considered the means of promoting the interests of the Republican party South. They decided to raise as large a [illegible], and a committee was appointed to make collections.

Consolidation of Express Companies.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The Tribune says a treaty is about to be signed merging the Adams, Merchants, Union, American and United States Express companies into a corporation with $38,000,000 capital. The Adams company has got $15,000,000 in the new concern; the Merchants, $5,000,000 for $300,000 paid in.

Virginia Convention.

RICHMOND, Dec. 4.—Underwood has been elected President of the State Convention. On taking the chair, he urged that the proceedings be characterized with a Christian spirit of moderation.

Troubles in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY (ALA.) Dec. 4.—Alarming [illegible] are committed by the blacks in Bullock county. A loyal [illegible] of the civil authority under [illegible] from colored emissaries. They formed a code of laws, [illegible] a court, and arrested by night the [illegible] opposing the unlawful proceedings. They threaten a general uprising and extermination of the whites. Gen. Swayne has sent a force of troops to restore order. [illegible] have been arrested.

From Mexico.

HAVANA, Dec. 4.—Dates from the City of Mexico are to November 30th. [illegible]

The Mexican journals attack Senor Romero for making ruinous contracts with the United States.

Escobedo had gone to camp. Diaz was inquiet and Ortega had been elected to Congress.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Further particulars have been received concerning the disastrous cyclone at Bombay. The loss of life and property was frightful. It is estimated that in the neighborhood of the city alone 1,000 persons perished, and 30,000 huts and habitations were utterly destroyed.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The second installment of the correspondence relative to the Alabama claims has been laid before the House of Commons. Lord Stanley says England will [illegible] to arbitration by [illegible] with [illegible] involving her right to recognize belligerents. He repeats his offer to [illegible] the [illegible] claims to arbitration and refer other demands for [illegible] to a mixed [illegible].

The strike of the [illegible] is ended. The Government has yielded and [illegible] the [illegible] law.

A [illegible] from [illegible] says the King of Abyssinia has [illegible] of the execution of the English captives. The [illegible]

The [illegible] says: All the powers except Holland and [illegible] have [illegible] to a conference. M. Moustier, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, said in the Corps Legislatif that the [illegible] does not take place France will be compelled to exact from Italy a literal compliance with the terms of the September treaty.

[illegible], Dec. 4.—[illegible] Von Beust [illegible] meeting of the [illegible] with [illegible] any [illegible], so that each power is free to act.

Austria has notified the Pope that [illegible] of the [illegible] even if in antagonism with the [illegible] should the Pope refuse to release the [illegible] from the obligations of the treaty made before he became [illegible] march.

[illegible], Dec. 4.—Italy has ordered 1,300,000 [illegible] pot rifles. Many political arrests are made.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—The case of police [illegible] Levy vs. Sam Brannan to recover $16,000 damages for alleged [illegible] of plaintiff, is on trial today.

Eveline Fisher was arrested last evening for begging. Upon searching her, about $80 were found concealed in her clothing. She was tried.

The [illegible] of [illegible] is for widening Kearney street so far amount to $420,000, leaving about $17,500 [illegible], a large portion being against parties entitled to receive more than they owe.

The case of [illegible] and Conneman, the St. Mary's College students, charged with stabbing Cunningham, came up to-day. Defendants' counsel offered to [illegible] by compromising Cunningham, but Judge Rix [illegible] the [illegible], saying he should certainly hold [illegible].

Money.

Gold was 137½, and Sterling 109½ in New York to-day. Legal Tenders are quoted at 72½@72¾. Government securities were quoted at 107½ for 5-20's and 104¾ for 7-30's. [illegible] Flour at 13 25; wheat 2 90@3 00. In Liverpool, [illegible] wheat was quoted at 13s.

The Markets.

Flour market quiet. Quotations for superfine $6 75@$7 25; Extra, $7 50@$8 50. Wheat buyers are very shy, while some holders would [illegible] more of a disposition to sell at a reduction on late ruling rates. Market is unusually dull; the asking prices are $2 50@$2 60 for good to choice shipping. Barley sales include 350 sks good brewing, $1 86; 300 sks $1 90; 400 sks good but mixed, $1 82½. We quote range $1 75@$1 95.

Shipping.

The Sea Serpent, for New York, will carry at least 2000 bbls. of flour; other shipments to that city will follow.

FROM THE NORTH.

Washington Territory Legislature.

OLYMPIA, Dec. 5.—The House organized, electing P. B. Johnson, of Walla Walla, Speaker.

We are Alarmed.

[From the Jacksonville Sentinal.]

By northern exchanges the fact has come to light, that B. J. Pengra, of Eugene City, has gone to Washington, to lobby a bill through Congress, aiding the construction of a railroad from Humboldt, Cal., to Portland, Oregon, via Eugene City. This road is to be a branch of the Central Pacific. Should that route obtain, and a road be built from the Humboldt across that waste desert, and over the Cascade mountains to Eugene City, and thence to Portland, we of Southern Oregon would be left out in the cold as effectually as if we lived in the wilds of Siberia. A road thus built would be of no advantage to us whatever, but on the other hand, a direct injury. That road once built, we, of Douglas and Jackson counties, Oregon, and Siskiyou county, Cal., may whistle.

But we can't believe that the Central Pacific Railroad Company ever intend to build a branch road from Humboldt. The idea that sharp capitalists will lay a track requiring such a large expenditure through a barren desert country, a distance of four or five hundred miles, when they might connect with Portland, by a more practicable way, is some thing very strange to say the least. We believe that Mr. Pengra will be bilked by this Central Pacific Company, and not only him, but all of Oregon.

It is to the interest of the Central Pacific to have only one trans-continental line and any influence which they can control [illegible] against the Northern [illegible]. Hence [illegible] General Military [illegible] the Willamette [illegible] branch road [illegible] all opposition by such promises [illegible] road is given to [illegible] it [illegible].

The Legislatures of [illegible] States, have instructed their Senators and Representatives in Congress, to [illegible] Pacific Railroad. The Central [illegible] will leave no stone unturned to defeat [illegible], even tho Oregon and Pengra & Co. be bilked thereby.

It was an unsolved query in our mind, why Hayward of California came to Oregon his summer, and purchased all the stock in the Oregon Steam Navigation Company that he could, when he already had a controlling interest. But the thing now begins to be apparent. Hayward is a large stockholder in the Central Pacific Railroad Company. He did not want a large minority capital, such as the O. S. N. Co. would be pulling against him and using its influence for a Northern Pacific Railroad. Hayward don't seem to care whether the O. S. N. Co.'s line pays or not. He has all the stock in his possession, or nearly so, and there is no power in that company that cares to make the line a paying affair. Hayward would rather loose on his capital invested in the O. S. N. Co. than to loose on the great capital invested in the Pacific Railroad.

We of Southern Oregon want no branch road from Humboldt, and believe it is to the interest of Northern Oregon to fight with us. The day is coming and not far distant, when two or three days in the transmission of freight from San Francisco to Portland will be no small item, and we don't think it is to the advantage of Portland and the Puget Sound country, to give up their interest in a North Pacific road for a branch running through sage brush and over the sandy deserts of Nevada.

Dr. Timothy Titcomb Holland said the other day in a lecture that women "loved their husbands best when ruled by them with a sweet sternness." Whether it was the sternness they liked or the saccharine element our sentimental American Tupper didn't say. "Sweet sternness!" Ladies, think of that!

Johnson is the name of the man of giant intellect at Pittsburg, who fastened bristles to the tail of a rat and sold the reconstructed animal for a squirrel.

The people of Plymouth, Massachusetts, have put a canopy over the venerable old Forefathers' Rock.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.—This important document reviews many serious questions now pending in our country, advising a reduction of taxes on a number of articles, and even not omitting to proclaim to the citizens of Oregon that KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, under all circumstances have proved themselves worthy of the largest share of custom by selling the very best and latest styles of Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods; also, Dry Goods lower than any other house in the State.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Kumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose, that can be seen in the reception room.

GLORIOUS NEWS FOR THE MILLION!

ANNUAL GRAND OPENING

OF

SANTA CLAUS' BUDGET!

AT

McCORMICK'S BOOK STORE!!

WHERE MY

HEAD-QUARTERS

HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED

For the Past Six Years,

and where

I WILL HOLD MY ANNUAL CARNIVAL

DURING THE COMING HOLIDAYS!

MY BUDGET FOR THIS SEASON

COMPRISES

THE LARGEST STOCK!

with

THE HANDSOMEST GOODS!!

and

The Cheapest Prices!

AND THAT ALL MAY OBSERVE

The Christmas and New Years'

HOLIDAYS!

I herewith issue my Annual

PROCLAMATION!!!

I've come, my dear people, among you once more,
Keeping up the good custom established of yore
I bid you all welcome! I wish you good cheer—
A right merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
You will find me this year, as you have heretofore,
At McCormick's, on Front street—the Franklin Book Store
Where I've opened my Budget—'twas filled to the brim
With every nice Toy that could talk, walk or swim,
I've Musical Work Boxes—and Guitars for the fair,
And Gifts for the Gents that are both rich and rare,
Whilst my Budget includes the nicest new Toys
Intended as Gifts to good Girls and Boys!
I've the Ark in which Grandfather Noah was kept
When all other creatures from the world were swept,
(For men in those days would in evil persist,
So the world was washed by an Oregon mist!)
I've Babies of Rubber, of wax and of leather,
(They were all made to order), and well put together;
I've Vases and Cups nicely gilded outside,
And little Rock Horses for Bobbies to ride;
I've Cannon and Pistols which cannot explode,
For the reason they hold neither wadding or load.
I've steamboats that run—you just wind them in front
And they'll beat the Cascade or the Wilson G. Hunt.
I've a new Locomotive—It can never explode,
'Twas built for the use of Gaston's Railroad,
I've Engines that play—Set them down on the floor
And they'll throw greater streams than old '3,' or new '4.'
I've Furniture, Fiddles, and French Fusiliers,
Soldiers that look like R. B. Pioneers,
I've Swords made of tin—Guns and Pistols as well,
And the new kind of Drum that rings like a bell,
I've Masks of all sizes—I've Grace Hoops, galore,
And you'll find at McCORMICK'S in the [illegible] Toys more,
On FRONT STREET the Store is—105,
Where TOYS are as plenty as bees in a hive;
Go there and buy them—this is my request,
His Prices are Low and his Stock is the Best.

"Scaling the Debt"

It is a favorite argument with those who propose to issue greenbacks to pay off the national debt, that as the bonds were purchased at a time when their value was much depreciated, no injustice would be done by paying the holders in the manner proposed, since, under this arrangement, they would be paid considerably more than they gave for their bonds. This scheme is exactly a counterpart of one which was broached in 1790. As a large proportion of the debt incurred in securing our independence had passed out of the hands of the original holders, and had accumulated in the possession of a comparatively few who had bought up the certificates or bonds at low rates, a proposition was made to apply to these certificates the principle of a scale of depreciation, and to pay them at the rates at which they had been purchased by holders. This idea found many advocates, just as a similar idea in reference to the national debt finds many advocates now. The scheme at that time was called "scaling down the debt," and though it was pressed with vigor and importunacy, it signally failed. Our fathers refused to sanction any such disreputable plan of virtual repudiation.

Hamilton, then Secretary of the Treasury, in his report took decided ground against the idea, and supported his position by very able arguments. Though not overlooking the moral aspect of the question, he put his arguments against the proposition mainly on the ground of policy. In order to meet those sudden emergencies to which, in the vicissitudes of affairs, all nations are exposed, public credit was absolutely essential. And public credit could only be maintained by the faithful payment of public debts, according to agreement. The nation had agreed to pay a certain amount of money to the holders of these certificates of indebtedness. These persons had exhibited their faith in the nation, had preserved the public credit from total extinction and had given ready money in exchange for a doubtful and uncertain claim. If the sums paid had been less in amount than the claims purchased, that, the Secretary argued, had been a natural and inevitable consequence of the financial position of the United States, making it a matter of great uncertainty whether the debt would ever be paid at all. Madison in arguing the subject in Congress declared that no logic could disprove the obligation of the United States to pay the whole amount, principal and interest, as promised on the face of the bonds. Gerry proposed to make up to the soldiers who had been paid in certificates the full amount which they had lost by the depreciation. And Madison discussing it still further on another occasion said "So far as paper goes, the creditors already possess that compensation. If honors can discharge the debt, they too have received civil honors. But the debt due in gold and silver is not payable in honors, nor appointments, nor paper." Finally provision was made not only for the payment of the general debt, but also for the payment of the State debts which, to the amount of $21,500,000, a very large sum for those times, were assumed by the General Government, and the whole was paid in gold.

This was the way in which our ancestors who created this nation proceeded with reference to a proposition of a kind with that which is now revived and presented for our acceptance. Cannot the repudiators of to day learn honesty as well as wisdom from the fathers of our Government?

FITNESS FOR VOTING.—Since the enfranchisement of the Southern blacks a good deal has been heard in denunciation of the "ignorant and degraded negro rabble" who vote en masse with the "Radicals." We are willing to admit that the negroes, as a class, have not a very high degree of intelligence and that it would be better if they had more; but when we come to compare the negro majorities of the South with the heavy Democratic majorities of certain localities in the North, it must be conceded that for intelligence and virtue, the latter have no advantage over the former. Take the Democratic majority in New York city and compare it with the negro majority in South Carolina. The latter is in every respect as intelligent as the former, and as well qualified to exercise the right of suffrage; while it is a notorious fact that there is more vice, crime, drunkenness and actual degradation among those who constitute the Democratic majority of New York city than there is among the entire negro population of the Southern States. The Copperhead majority in New York city in November reached the unprecedented figure of 60,467, the total vote being 112,000. Of the Democratic vote, which reached a total of 86,000, not less than 30,000, or a number almost equal to the entire majority of the party in the city, was made up from the vilest slums that can be found on the American continent, compared with whom the Esquimaux of our Northern Pole regions are a respectable people. This majority, raked up from the purlieus of vice and dens of infamy, is paraded with exultation by Democrats, who with their next breath, vilify the blacks of the South as being unfit to discharge the duties of citizens in a popular government. Perhaps the negro has not the capacity, but his qualifications certainly are as good as are those of that class of Democrats who instigated the New York riots in 1863, and who regularly vote the ticket of their party. As an abstract proposition, the negro may be unfit to vote, but relatively he is fit, as any candid person who considers the facts we have mentioned must acknowledge.

Great men—or men in great places—do not always take the same view of events. Thus, President Johnson thinks the losses experienced by the Republicans in three or four States are a condemnation of the Congressional plan of reconstruction, but when three times as many States went against him, last year, and in almost every instance by heavy majorities, he would not accept the popular verdict as a condemnation of his "policy" Circumstances alter cases, and the sauce that is supposed to be entirely adapted to the Republican goose disagrees as entirely with the Johnsonian gander. There is nothing left for it but to "play the rub" next year, and then we shall rub out Democracy.

REGISTRATION IN NEW YORK.—The New York Tribune appeals to the honest people of the State in favor of such an amendment of the Registration Law of that State as would secure longer time for the scrutiny and revision of registry lists. It cites these instances of fraud:

Here are three brothers O'Dowd keeping rumholes ... in three different wards of our city ... [illegible] ... Michael ... [illegible] ... the registries ... longed."

The Registry is indispensable, but time should be given for scrutiny and the detection of the frauds. To close the list at 9 P. M. on Saturday and open the polls at 7 A. M on Monday, is absurdly favorable to rascality. Ten days are quite few enough for the proper examination of these claims to the elective franchise, so as to preclude random challenging and afford opportunity for detecting frauds. Yet so long as one party is certain to add at least eight hundred to its majority from every thousand illegal votes that may or can be polled, and that party controls the judicial machinery of our city, it will be very difficult to secure any effective, thorough reform.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

DATES TO DECEMBER 5.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON Dec 4 —The House galleries were crowded in expectation that the impeachment question would come up.

Cullom offered a resolution which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, with reference to naturalized citizens declaring them entitled to the protection of the United States Government and that it is the duty of the President to see that naturalized citizens abroad engaged in lawful pursuits shall not be unlawfully deprived of their liberty, nor be subjected to military service.

The bill to repeal the cotton tax passed .... [illegible]

The Speaker presented a number of communications on various subjects. Adjourned.

In the Senate, on motion of Sumner, the President was requested to communicate to the Senate copies of any correspondence of the Government with Great Britain relative to existing claims of the two governments against each other.

Drake offered a concurrent resolution declaring the course of the President in his annual message in declaring the acts of Congress in relation to reconstruction to be plainly unconstitutional in absence of any adjudication to that effect by the supreme judiciary is a departure from official propriety transcending the just limits of his constitutional prerogative to give Congress information in regard to the state of the country, and justifies strong reprehension on the part of Congress. The resolution was ordered to be printed.

Anthony from the Committee on Printing, reported in favor of printing the President's message.

Howard opposed it. He could not vote for printing and circulating what he considered a wanton libel on Congress, and an insidious invitation to the rebel States to use violence in resistance to its reconstruction policy. It was unconstitutional and revolutionary.

Considerable discussion followed, pending which Trumbull introduced a bill making five judges of the Supreme Court a quorum, which was passed.

After other unimportant business the Senate went into executive session.

Washington News

WASHINGTON Dec 4 — The President has furnished the Senate with copies of the Motley Seward correspondence. Motley denounces the charges against him as false and the work of calumnious informers.

The report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue gives the receipts as $266,[illegible], of which $57,000,000 are from the income tax and $30,000,000 from the tax on distilled spirits. He opposes the removal of the tax on liquors.

The French Minister gave a grand diplomatic dinner to-day. Seward and all the European Ministers were present, also the chairmen of both Committees on Foreign Affairs.

CHICAGO, Dec 5 —The Times' special says Gen. Steadman is in danger, only ill from an attack of apoplexy.

Mr. Wilson has introduced a bill in the Senate declaring a majority of votes cast sufficient to call a convention in the South. Under the present law a majority of the registered voters is required.

A Republican caucus last night considered the means of promoting the interests of the Republican party South. They decided to raise as large a sum as possible, and a committee was appointed to make collections.

Consolidation of Express Companies.

NEW YORK, Dec 4 —The Tribune says a treaty is about to be signed merging the Adams, Merchants, Union, American and United States Express companies into a corporation with $35,000,000 capital. The Adams company has got $10,000,000 in the new concern, the Merchants, $5,000,000 for $300,000 paid in.

Virginia Convention

RICHMOND, Dec 4 —Underwood has been elected President of the State Convention. On taking the chair, he urged that the proceedings be characterized with a Christian spirit of moderation.

Troubles in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY (ALA) Dec 4 —Alarming excesses are committed by the blacks in Bullock county. A loyal league resisted the process of the civil authority under instructions from colored emissaries. They formed a code of laws, opened a court, and arrested by night the blacks opposing the unlawful proceedings. They threaten a general uprising and extermination of the whites. Gen Swayne has sent a force of troops to restore order. Fifteen black insurrectionists have been arrested.

From Mexico.

HAVANA, Dec 4 —Dates from the City of Mexico are to November 20th.

Congress had assembled.

The Mexican journals attack Senor Romero for making ruinous contracts with the United States.

Escobedo had gone to camp. Diaz was inquiet and Ortega had been elected to Congress.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Dec. 3 —Further particulars have been received concerning the disastrous cyclone at Bombay. The loss of life and property was fearful. It is estimated that in the neighborhood of the city alone 1,000 persons perished, and 30,000 huts and habitations were utterly destroyed.

LONDON, Dec. 4 —The second installment of the correspondence relative to the Alabama claims has been laid before the House of Commons. Lord Stanley says England will never consent to arbitration by foreign powers with claims involving her right to recognize belligerents. He repeats his offer to submit the Alabama claims to arbitration and refer other demands for indemnity to a mixed commission.

The strike of the cabmen is ended. The Government has yielded and repealed the obnoxious law.

A dispatch from Bombay says the King of Abyssinia has ordered the execution of the English captives. The report needs confirmation.

The Standard says All the powers except Holland and Belgium have agreed to a conference. M Moustier, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, said in the Corps Legislatif that the conference was uncertain. Should it not take place France will be compelled to exact from Italy a literal compliance with the terms of the September treaty.

VIENNA, Dec. 4.—Baron Von Beust urges a meeting of the conference without any programme, so that each power is free to act.

Austria has notified the Pope that legislation of the Reichsrath must proceed even if in antagonism with the Concordat, should the Pope refuse to release the Emperor from the obligations of the treaty made before he became Constitutional monarch.

FLORENCE, Dec. 4 —Italy has ordered 1,300,000 Chassepot rifles. Many political arrests are made.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—The case of police officer Levy vs. Sam Brannan to recover $10,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution of plaintiff, is on trial to-day.

Eveline Fisher was arrested last evening for begging. Upon searching her, about $80 were found concealed in her clothing. She was tried.

The collecting of assessments for widening Kearney street so far amount to $430,000, leaving about $17,500 delinquent, a large portion being against parties entitled to receive more than they owe.

The case of Rightmeyer, Mulcahy and Corcoran, the St Mary's College students, charged with stabbing Cunningham, came up to-day. Defendants' counsel offered to compromise by compensating Cunningham, but Judge Rix refused the proposition, saying he should certainly hold Rightmeyer to answer.

Monetary.

Gold was 137⅛, and Sterling 109¾ in New York to-day. Legal Tenders are quoted at 72½@73¼. Government securities were quoted at 107⅞ for 5-20s and 104⅛ for 7-30's. California Flour at 13 25, wheat 2 90@3 00. In Liverpool, yesterday, California wheat was quoted at 13s.

The Markets

Flour market quiet. Quotations for superfine $6 75@$7 25; Extra, $7 50@$8 50. Wheat buyers are very shy, while some holders manifest more of a disposition to sell at a reduction on late ruling rates. Market is unusually dull, the asking prices are $1 80@$2 00 for good to choice shipping. Barley sales include 550 sks good brewing, $1 86, 800 sks $1 90, 400 sks good but mixed, $1 82½. We quote range $1 75@$1 95.

Shipping.

The Sea Serpent, for New York, will carry at least 2000 bbls of flour, other shipments to that city will follow.

FROM THE NORTH

Washington Territory Legislature.

OLYMPIA, Dec 5 —The House organized, electing P B Johnson, of Walla Walla, Speaker.

We are Alarmed.

(From the Jacksonville Sentinel.)

By northern exchanges the fact has come to light, that B. J. Pengra, of Eugene City, has gone to Washington, to lobby a bill through Congress, aiding the construction of a railroad from Humboldt, Cal., to Portland, Oregon, via Eugene City. This road is to be a branch of the Central Pacific. Should that route obtain, and a road be built from the Humboldt across that waste desert, and over the Cascade mountains to Eugene City, and thence to Portland, we of Southern Oregon would be left out in the cold as effectually as if we lived in the wilds of Siberia. A road thus built would be of no advantage to us whatever, but on the other hand, a direct injury. That road once built, we, of Douglas and Jackson counties, Oregon, and Siskiyou county, Cal., may whistle.

But we can't believe that the Central Pacific Railroad Company ever intend to build a branch road from Humboldt. The idea that sharp capitalists will lay a track requiring such a large expenditure through a barren desert country, a distance of four or five hundred miles, when they might connect with Portland, by a more practicable way, is some thing very strange to say the least. We believe that Mr. Pengra will be bilked by this Central Pacific Company, and not only him, but all of Oregon.

It is to the interest of the Central Pacific to ... [illegible] ... stone unturned ... Oregon and Pengra & Co be bilked thereby.

It was an unsolved query in our mind, why Hayward of California came to Oregon his summer, and purchased all the stock in the Oregon Steam Navigation Company that he could, when he already had a controlling interest. But the thing now begins to be apparent. Hayward is a large stockholder in the Central Pacific Railroad Company. He did not want a large minority capital, such as the O S. N. Co. would be pulling against him and using its influence for a Northern Pacific Railroad. Hayward don't seem to care whether the O S N Co a line pays or not. He has all the stock in his possession, or nearly so and there is no power in that company that care to make the line a paying affair. Hayward would rather loose on his capital invested in the O. S. N. Co than to loose on the great capital invested in the Pacific Railroad.

We of Southern Oregon want no branch road from Humboldt, and believe it is to the interest of Northern Oregon to fight with us. The day is coming and not far distant, when two or three days in the transmission of freight from San Francisco to Portland will be no small item, and we don't think it is to the advantage of Portland and the Puget Sound country, to give up their interest in a North Pacific road for a branch running through sage brush and over the sandy deserts of Nevada.

Dr Timothy Titcomb Holland said the other day in a lecture that women "loved their husbands best when ruled by them with a sweet sternness." Whether it was the sternness they liked or the saccharine element our sentimental American Tupper didn't say "Sweet sternness!" Ladies, think of that!

Johnson is the name of the man of giant intellect at Pittsburg, who fastened bristles to the tail of a rat and sold the reconstructed animal for a squirrel.

The people of Plymouth, Massachusetts, have put a canopy over the venerable old Forefathers' Rock.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.—This important document reviews many serious questions now pending in our country, advising a reduction of taxes on a number of articles and even not omitting to proclaim to the citizens of Oregon that KOHN & FISHEL, No 91 Front street, under all circumstances have proved themselves worthy of the largest share of custom by selling the very best and latest styles of Clothing and Gents Furnishing Goods, also, Dry Goods lower than any other house in the State.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water colors or oil by Mrs S J Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

AND THAT ALL MAY OBSERVE

The Christmas and New Years'

HOLIDAYS!

I herewith issue my Annual

PROCLAMATION!!!

I've come, my dear people, among you once more,
Keeping up the good custom established of yore
I bid you all welcome! I wish you good cheer—
A right merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
You will find me this year, as you have heretofore,
At McCormick's, on Front street—the Franklin Book Store
Where I've opened my Budget—'twas filled to the brim
With every nice Toy that could talk, walk or swim.
I've Musical Work Boxes—and Guitars for the fair
And Gifts for the Gents that are both rich and rare,
Whilst my Budget includes the nicest new Toys
Intended as Gifts to good Girls and Boys!
I've the Ark in which Grandfather Noah was kept
When all other creatures from the world were swept,
(For men in those days would in evil persist,
So the world was washed by an Oregon mist!)
I've Babies of Rubber, of wax and of leather,
(They were all made to order), and we'll put together,
I've Vases and Cups nicely gilded outside,
And little Owl Horses for Babbies to ride,
I've Cannon and Pistols which cannot explode,
For the reason they hold neither wadding or load
I've steamboats that run—you just wind them in front
And they'll beat the Cascade or the Wilson G. Hunt.
I've a new Locomotive—It can never explode,
'Twas built for the use of Gaston's Railroad,
I've Engines that play—Set them down on the floor
And they'll throw greater streams than old '2' or new '4'
I've Furniture, Fiddles, and French Fenders,
Soldiers that look like E. B. Pioneers
I've Swords made of tin—Guns and Pistols as well,
And the new kind of Drum that rings like a bell.
I've Masks of all sizes—I've Grace Hoops galore,
And you'll find at McCORMICK'S a thousand Toys more,
On FRONT STREET the Store is—105,
Where TOYS are as plenty as bees in a hive,
Go there and buy them—this is my request,
His Prices are Low and his Stock is the Best.

{ L. S } Given at my Palace in Wonderland, this 30th day of the eleventh month, being the first year of the reign of George the Third in Webfoot.

A WAIL FROM A THIRSTY POET.—It will be remembered that at the late session of the Grand Lodge I. O. G. T. of this jurisdiction, the pledge was construed to prohibit the use of cider. This action was felt to be a little rough on some portions of Good Templardom which had always ... indulged in the juice of the big red apple. Thirst naturally followed abstinence. We are forced to the conclusion that it was a raging thirst which inspired the following Hiawathan wail from a ... poet. It was originally read in Lebanon Lodge No. 14, and a ciderist, ... hold of it, forwarded it to us:

Ye who love the gifts of nature,
Love the good things to us given,
Love to taste and feel life's blessings,
And are mindful to the Giver,
Ever thankful to the Giver,
To the great and wise Creator
For his blessings and his mercies,
Pause and listen to this story,
To this story sad and doleful,
Doleful, sad and melancholy,
Full of dearth and prohibition,
Full of longings and denials;
How that in the great Willamette,
In the land of big red apples,
Apples of the richest flavor,
Sweet and rich and very plenty;
How that in this happy country,
Happy then but now afflicted,
Afflicted with the direst longings,
Longings grown almost intolerable.
Men of age and sound discretion,
Men with beards about their faces,
Men of office and of power,
Office great and power plenty,
Gathered then themselves together
In the town of many houses,
In the great and splendid city,
Portland, gay and very festive,
Where the least things are the greatest
And are done with most pretension.
Here the mighty men of Webfoot
Met and talked and wondered much,
Wondered much to hear such talk,
Such wisdom and such eloquence;
And they talked and voted much,
Voted thanks and voted moneys;
Voted all things right and needful,
Voted, oh! how sad to tell it—
With portentious mein they voted
Cider banished from our presence;
Cider made of big red apples,
Banished and prohibited,
Forever banished from us
As a thing unclean and sinful!
Saying do not taste it brother
For it is unclean and sinful.
This they did and felt the bigger
Thinking they were wise and thoughtful,
Wiser than the Sanhedrim.

H. W. HIGHFELLOW.

THE "AMERICAN GAME." Base ballists claim that the game is the "American Game"—in short that Young ... has invented it. STATE ITEMS.

Eighty cents is now paid for wheat at the Albany mills.

A prospectus for a Democratic campaign paper has appeared in Douglas county. The paper will appear, it is said, in January.

The Gale brothers of the Roseburg Ensign have dissolved. H. H. Gale, having bought out the interest of his brother, J. M. Gale, will continue the paper.

A Jacksonville paper learns that there are about one hundred acres of grain sown in Klamath Lake Valley, with the prospect of considerable more being put in. There is every indication of a large emigration to that point in the spring.

An Albany paper says: The P. T. Co.'s boats are running daily up the Willamette as far as the stage of water will admit, and receiving to their utmost capacity; yet the warehouses are crowded, and they take only an instalment from each landing, so as to accommodate all to some extent.

The Sentinel invites Democratic organs which are growling because the rich don't pay taxes enough, to present some plan, not in violation of the Constitution, or at variance with the decisions of a long line of Democratic Supreme Judges, by which this wealth may be made to pay heavier contributions. That paper will be happy to hear from Democratic organs on this point.

The Salem Record has the following notice of an "unfortunate": Minser is unfortunate in being accused of such crimes as arson and larceny, but he accounts for it in this wise: In answer to the question if he was a Democrat or Republican, he claimed to be the latter, and was told, "This man says you are a Democrat." "That is a story," said he, "that Curl started on me, and it has brought me to disgrace ever since."

The Turbine wheels ordered from the East, by the Messrs. Fosters, for the Magnolia flouring mill at Albany, arrived, says the Journal, on the 21st inst., and the stage of the water being unexpectedly propitious, they have been placed in position, under the superintendence of Mr. Backensto. This patent wheel is a triumph in hydraulics, and ... the Magnolia among the first-class mills of the coast.

The Sentinel has the following: Capt. Thos. McGregor of the 1st U. S. Cavalry, passed through town on Thursday, on his way to Fort Klamath, where he will take command on his arrival. Lieut. Small, now in command of the post, will visit Eugene City on leave of absence. Captain McGregor is a regular officer, was all through the peninsular campaign with the army of the Potomac, and ... with gallantry in the Shenandoah Valley during Sheridan's brilliant campaign, participating in the battles of Cedar Creek and Fisher's Hill. He will be in communication with General Crook during the winter, and if occasion offers, will take the field in person against the hostile Snakes.

The Albany Journal says of the Brownsville Woolen Factory: The Democratic party have a standing menace to the no-tariff plank of their platform, in this section, by the presence of this large manufactory. It is situated in the interior of the wool-growing district of the county, absorbs a large portion of the wool crop, and furnishes a market for much of the produce grown in the vicinity. About fifty hands are employed by the corporation, forty of whom are engaged in the various industries of the mill. Fifteen thousand yards of cloth are produced every month which finds its way to Portland, where it is manufactured and sent mostly to the mining regions east of the Columbia, as the goods of this mill stand high among the miners. Robert Duncan, Esq., is Superintendent; Messrs. Perkins and McDonald are the wool assorters; and Mr. ..., foreman of the weaving department. Most of the employees are English, who have had thorough ... in the country of their birth. Messrs. Duncan and Perkins are Americans, the former being from New Jersey, and the latter from Vermont. We would advise our D... ...atic brethren to visit this establishment and get cured of their non-protective heresy, as it would sink as if by fire should free trade theories ever triumph.

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER.

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS!

At this period there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands alone, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines, and its sale is universal and immense. The ... for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the ... at home, and it has become known in those far off places by its merits.

PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.
NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.
The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works ... in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless cathartic, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.
Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.
As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS ... effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. Burr and Houston.

In 1824, I first became acquainted with Aaron Burr. He was attending the Court of Errors at Utica, having obtained favorable decisions in the lower courts for his clients, the Miss Ardens, to their claims to an immense estate in John, Cliff, and other streets in the lower part of the city of New York, which were appealed from and of course had to be reviewed by the Court of Errors; consisting of the Lieutenant Governor and Senators of the State which then was what the Court of Appeals is now, and as such were in session every summer for the revision of errors in the lower courts.

I had been very familiar with the history of Col. Burr, and had been taught by my father, a strong Washingtonian Federalist, and an ardent admirer of the distinguished Gen. Alexander Hamilton, to look upon Burr as an incarnate fiend. But after sitting daily for several months at the same hotel table, I could not resist the mesmeric influence he seemed to throw at his will, over all with whom he came in immediate contact. He was verging then on the winter of life, but his smile was fascinating, his gentleness unsurpassed, and his graceful conversation and suavity of manners were charming and bewitching to a young man, eager and anxious to learn and know from observation if all I had read and heard of this ogre in comely form was true; and I confess that for a time "I loathed, then pitied, then embraced," and we became fast friends; and not until years after, when I came to New York, and by accident renewed our former acquaintance, did I fully learn the real character of Col. Burr, and realize the wonderful sagacity and wisdom of President Washington refusing to appoint him minister to France, resisting the earnest entreaties of a committee from the United States Senate, led by James Madison, giving an unanswerable reason, that his rule was invariable and inflexible "never to appoint an immoral man to office." I could give other satisfactory reasons for withdrawing my youthful regard for Col. Burr, but the grave need not be opened for such a purpose. In 1836, I conveyed his remains in my steamboat from Staten Island, where he died in poverty and obscurity, to his final resting place, and when his body was carried on shore by my crew, to be put in a car for Princeton, N. J., accompanied by only two or three distant relatives, I confess to having said, thus to see passing away the remains of a worse than ill-spent life, "unwept, unhonored and unsung."

That Aaron Burr had any treasonable intentions against the United States, at the time of his [illegible] expedition to Mexico, I never believed, but he was many years in advance of the age. His idea undoubtedly was to establish a new Republic, perhaps an empire, over all that part of Northern Mexico between the Rio Grande, the Mississippi and the unlimited great West.

Some five and twenty years after this ignoble failure, Ex-Gov. Sam Houston of Tennessee, [illegible] a story to be circulated in the newspapers, that in [illegible] of the infidelity of his wife, he had [illegible] disgusted with civilized society, and had [illegible] a tribe of wandering Indians on the Red River, was painted and dressed in Indian [illegible] still as the son of a great warrior and chief, and from his stalwart [illegible] and manly figure, was considered a valuable acquisition to the ruthless savages. All this [illegible] very naturally created much sympathy [illegible] thus [illegible] injured a man; but time [illegible] soon found the white Indian [illegible] and examining the beautiful rivers and [illegible] plains of Texas, and poisoning the [illegible] against the Mexican [illegible] deadly tomahawk of the [illegible] Indians. After accomplishing his [illegible] the friendship of his Indian [illegible] to Congress; but his brutal and [illegible] out of [illegible] with the secret aid of the most powerful men in the country and the open purses of the slave [illegible] he commenced [illegible] the original plan of Aaron Burr, the conquest of Texas; and of course, it was [illegible] as the South intended it should be, as another Slave State in the Union. I [illegible] at the time he was charged with having courted an alliance with Great Britain, or rather with her gold, and heard his [illegible] in vindication of his character. He said that his object in [illegible] negotiation was for the [illegible] the natural hatred and jealousy between this country and England; and but for the [illegible] haste of the Texas Cong[ress] [illegible] the American [illegible].

I saw [illegible] afterwards in New York, and at Philadelphia, after he had [illegible] entirely different life. He [illegible] 1861, a [illegible] to the Union, and [illegible] to favor secession. He was [illegible] in Texas, but [illegible] to abandon a position to [illegible] been elected by the people. The [illegible] act of their Legislature deposing him, and swung the State over to the traitors. Gov. Houston did not live to see the fulfillment of his prophecy that the South would be ruined by its suicidal course; his latter years were his best, and after such an exposed, eventful life, he died calmly and serenely, the death of a [illegible] man and a Christian, in 1863.—Phil. [illegible] City Item.

[illegible] a Comet's Tail?

[illegible] Proctor, an astronomer of some reputation, contributes a paper to the last number of [illegible], which, in connection with the late [illegible] shower, has special interest. He advances [illegible], Schiaparelli, Weiss, and many other eminent astronomers, that these meteors belong to the tails, or at any rate the trains, of comets. To make a long story short, the evidence on which this is based runs as follows: An exceedingly small comet of last year—Temple's [illegible] by a luminous body [illegible] as to the nature of what that body is conjectured, [illegible] proved to the satisfaction of astronomers [illegible] consists of incandescent vapor, shining by its own light, and the [illegible] of incandescent solid or liquid matter, or more probably of [illegible] solid or liquid particles, which [illegible] the sun's light. On the night of Nov. 13, 1866, when a great meteoric shower took place in Europe, the earth was near the orbit of Tempel's comet. And it has been proven by laborious calculations, conducted in different ways by Adams and Leverrier, that the path around the sun of the meteors seen that night coincided exactly with the path of Tempel's comet, though that comet was [illegible] millions of miles away. These calculations were undertaken and [illegible] without any thought of the result to which they led. The paths of other showers of [illegible] have since been identified with the orbits of other comets, and in the language of Mr. Proctor, "It would seem that the great April aerolite shower [illegible] upon the earth (of which four are known to have fallen in England alone,) follows the path of the great comet of 1861."

From this it is concluded that comets are followed by trains of cosmical dust, of which the tails are the denser part, and that the tenuity of the tails is due to the wide dispersion of the particles composing them. The evidence upon which this theory is based seems certainly very strong, but there are other facts which appear to militate against it. As the attention of astronomers is [illegible] to the matter, before long it will, no doubt, be either completely verified or disproved, and the recent shower which was visible all over Europe and America will help to throw some light upon the matter.—S. F. Times.

SENATOR WILSON.—Senator Wilson of Massachusetts recently delivered an address at Marlboro, in that State, in which he gave the following [illegible] of the result of the elections:

I now make the prediction, and I am willing that it shall go upon the record, that these magnificent triumphs that so elate Northern Democrats and so encourage Southern traitors will bring these lagging Republicans to the front, that the Republican party will not qualify or retreat from its position, that it will select Gen. Grant for its great leader, give him the votes of not less than thirty States, and a Congress to support his administration with a two-thirds majority in each house. In the present Congress the Republican party has four to one in the Senate, and nearly one hundred majority in the House. I assure my Republican friends here to-night that our majorities in both houses will be increased. The everloyal white men of the rebel States more or less compromised by the rebellion, and the 600,000 enfranchised black men, will reconstruct the rebellious States in spite of Andrew Johnson and his supporters, and send a majority of Republican Senators and Representatives to represent their States in Congress.

THREE KINDS.—Blackwood's Magazine says there are three kinds of English employed among all educated people who use the language—Bible, or old Saxon English, when they go to church or read poetry; vernacular, or colloquial English, not altogether free from slang or vulgarity, when they talk to one another in the ordinary course of life; and literary English when they make speeches or sermons, and write or read articles, reviews or books.

How Railroads Affect Population.

[From the New York Evening Post.]

It has often been said that railroads have revolutionized industry and commerce, production as well as the exchange of products. A patient German, Dr. George Edward Wiss, formerly United States Consul at Rotterdam, has used, as he says, the leisure of his office life to examine closely the census returns of the United States, with the object of attaining by contrast of figures, and by a close scrutiny of the rate of our material growth, some of the grand effects of railroads upon the population of a country.

Dr. Wiss asserts that railroads have had a greater influence upon the material development of the United States, and also upon the peculiar manner of their development, and consequently upon the character, habits and customs of our people, than any other cause whatever. "On first thoughts," he remarks, "it may seem a vague speculation to say that a tool, a locomotive, and iron roadway, should work a great revolution in the lives of men; or that it should control the vigor or the extent of their increase, or the manner of their distribution, in cities or in the country. But this is not all—it changes as well their employments; it heightens their culture; it creates new qualities." In these two sentences are briefly comprised his conclusions, from a very extensive and accurate survey of a vast field.

He finds that the United States have a mile of railroad for every thousand inhabitants; and this proportion he seems to believe normal; at that rate, he imagines railroads will, or would naturally increase.

But he proves the correctness and thoroughness of his comprehension of our wonderful growth, when he remarks that, next to the railroads, "the most wonderful aid to the settlement and development of the wilderness is the erection of the wild lands into Territories and States. The establishment of justice and security for persons and property, and the close connection, economical and governmental, with the older and more cultivated States, thus brought about is the first condition of profitable development," he says. It opens the way to emigration from the older States, whose people are able to change, their residence without changing their laws or customs, their social or political organization. In this he rightly sees one of the most powerful aids to emigration from the East to the West, from the old to the new lands.

Among other incentives to the rapid population of our new lands he reckons, in the order in which we give them, the levee system on the Mississippi, the discovery of the precious metals, the invention of the cotton-gin—which he oddly enough attributes to a negro—and he counts, among the least of the means by which our population has been increased, the immigration of foreigners. "The sufferings of the passage, the new climate and life of the United States, the severity of their struggle on their first arrival," work, he says, "like a Spartan bath—only the strongest and the most enduring survive;" and he cites the returns of mortality in our cities to show how great is the preponderance of death among the immigrant population. But besides this, he remarks that while our population increased between 1790 and 1820, from 3,929,827 to 9,638,131, in that period we received only 270,000 foreigners of all kinds, slave and free. Between 1790 and 1840 we received but 930,949 foreigners; and he cites statistics to prove that of so little real moment is the influence of foreign immigration upon the general and great increase of our population, that in the period when this accession was the largest our general rate of increase was absolutely the least, while we increased most rapidly in those decennial periods when immigration was the least.

He returns then to his conclusion, that to the rapid spread of railroads we owe not only the great growth of our cities, but also an absolute and general increase of population, in town and country.

Of course that railroads build up cities, he brings prominently forward; and he counts it as one of the beneficent results in the future, of the perfection of the railroad system, that it will give a more healthful growth and development to both city and country; that it will enable the city to spread itself over a far greater territory—a process which we now see going on around New York—and that it will so intimately connect city and country as to give to each [illegible] of the peculiar [illegible] the country something of [illegible] culture of the city; to the [illegible] of the freedom and hardiness of the country.

We must [illegible] with an analysis of a curious table he gives, showing the relative increase of city and country population in the United States: In 1790 the country had 3,769,996 people, the cities [illegible]; in the ten years following the country [illegible] per cent., the city 7[illegible] per cent.; in the [illegible] 34½ per cent. [illegible]; in the next [illegible] period [illegible] the country increased 32½ per cent. [illegible] and the cities gain more and more upon the country in every decennial period, the highest ratio being found in the period 1840–50, when he ascribes 29½ per cent. of increase to the country, and 84 to the cities.

In the year 1850 the country had 4,917,169 people, the cities only 383,756; in 1860 the country had 25,595,242, the cities 5,748,080. In 1800 the city population amounted to one in every eleven of our whole population. In 1860 it had grown to one for every five and a half, in round figures, of the whole population. Thus, the city population has gained upon the country, at an enormous rate; and it is not probable that this aggregation of population in cities will either stop or decrease; on the contrary it must, in the nature of things, largely increase. The probable effects of this upon our population would be an interesting subject of speculation.

GUY OUR-GUYED.—The following is from Bret Hart's "Condensed Novel," after the style of the Guy Livingston school:

"If I were looking for an Endymion, own," she said archly, as she playfully cantered over a few hounds and leaped a five-barred gate.

Guy whispered a few words, inaudible to the rest of the party, and swerving slightly, cleverly cleared two of the huntsman in a flying leap, galloped up the front steps of the mansion, and dashing at full speed through the hall, leaped through the drawing-room window and rejoined me, languidly, on the lawn.

"Be careful of Flora Billingsgate," he said to me, in low stern tones, while his pitiless eye shot a baleful fire. "Gardez vous!"

"Gnothi seauton," I replied calmly, not wishing to appear to be behind him in perception or verbal felicity.

Guy started off in high spirits. He was well carried. He and the first whip, a ten-stone man, were head and head at the last fence, while the hounds were rolling over their fox, a hundred yards further in the open.

But an unexpected circumstance occurred. Coming back, his chestnut mare refused a ten-foot wall. She reared and fell backward. Again he led her up to it lightly; again she refused, falling heavily from the coping. Guy started to his feet. The old pitiless fire shone in his eyes; the old stern look settled around his mouth. Seizing the mare by the tail and mane he threw her over the wall. She landed twenty feet on the other side, erect and trembling. Lightly leaping the same obstacle himself, he remounted. She did not refuse the wall the next time.

And from the same capital burlesque is this picture also:

One evening we were sitting over our Chambertin, after a hard day's work, and Guy was listlessly turning over some letters, when suddenly he uttered a cry. Did you ever hear the trumpeting of a wounded elephant? It was like that.

I looked at him with consternation. He was glancing at a letter which he held at arm's length, and snorting, as it were, at it as he gazed. The lower part of his face was stern, but not as rigid as usual. He was slowly grinding between his teeth the fragments of the glass he had just been drinking from. Suddenly he seized one of his servants, and forcing the wretch upon his knees, exclaimed with the roar of a tiger:

"Dog! why was this kept from me?"

"Why, please, sir, Miss Flora said as how it was a reconciliation from Miss Brandagee, and it was to be kept from you where you would not be likely to see it—and—and—"

"Speak, dog! and you—"

"I put it among your bills, sir!"

"With a groan like distant thunder, Guy fell swooning to the floor.

ONE FAMILY GOBBLES UP ANOTHER.—A most extraordinary matrimonial arrangement has lately been consummated in this city, says a Chicago paper, and one which is worthy of an extended notice, not only as being in distinction from the ordinary slow-matching process, but as carrying with it some very valuable practical suggestions. The bare announcement of "Married on the instant, by the Rev. Mr. ——, at the residence of the father of the three brides, Mr. Frank Ulbrich to Miss Barbara Schmur; also, Mr. Augustus Ulbrich to Miss Mary Schmur; also, Mr. Henry W. Ulbrich to Miss Elizabeth Schmur," would tell nearly the whole story, the only necessary additional information being that the bridegrooms are brothers, and the happy brides are sisters, and that, in both instances, it finished up the family. It was literally the marriage of two entire families.

There died at the county poorhouse, at Nashville, lately, a woman who was once the wife of Ned Buntline, and afterwards mistress of the Texan ranger, Ben McCulloch.

There is a rumor in journalistic circles in New York, that James Gordon Bennett is trying to dispose of the Herald. The story goes that he is too infirm to conduct that journal himself, and he fears his son is not a safe person to leave the concern with. This latter part of the rumor is not borne out by previous statements, which unanimously represent James Gordon Bennett, Jr., as showing much ability and energy in his profession. The price which it is said is asked for the Herald, including building and fixtures, is the nice little sum of eleven hundred thousand dollars in gold, and the principal bidders are the American News Company and Mr Childs, of Philadelphia. The relations of the Herald with the Associated Press are uncomfortable. It has given notice of withdrawing from the Association on the 1st of January, but has not been successful in obtaining the support of the press outside of New York, upon which it counted for its new Association. Single handed, it could not compete with an organization comprising the entire press of the country, and there is some probability that having announced its intention of withdrawing, it will not now be allowed to retreat and remain. This would place the veteran editor in a position where, perhaps the safest thing he can do will be to sell if he finds a purchaser.

But one hundred and five sabre wounds and one hundred and forty-three bayonet wounds were reported from the field during the first three years of the war.

THE ROYAL BALSAM!

HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR A length of time, and wherever used is highly recommended, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used; and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction, but, on the contrary, all are delighted with it and speak in the highest terms of its magical effects. The astonishing efficacy of the ROYAL BALSAM, in curing the diseases for which it is recommended entitles it to the highest rank among the list of medicines, and no family can be without it after once trying it.

Read the following testimonials from some of the most prominent citizens of Oregon:

MIRACULOUS CURE.

DR. HENLEY—Dear Sir: I feel it but a duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my wife. She had been affected with a severe cough for several weeks, which had assumed a dangerous feature, for which many physicians have been trying without any material benefit, and all the remedies failed to give her any relief. Without relief was got I feared for the worst, in her present condition. The cough appeared to be worse at night, she could get no rest—when Mr. Randall, of this place, advised me to try your Royal Balsam; all other remedies having failed; I concluded to try it, and I purchased two bottles. Strange to say, by the time I gave her three spoonfuls of the Balsam she got relief, and slept, a thing she had not done for three nights previous. By the time she had taken one bottle the cough was checked. Its effect was truly miraculous, as the cure was effectual; hence, I have no hesitation in recommending the Royal Balsam to all who are afflicted, and it appears astonishing to me that medicine of such great merit, and I might say magical effect, is not more in use. My candid opinion is, if persons use it once, they never be without it in the house.

Vancouver, March 1, 1867. H. COCHRAN.

From Wm. Doty.

North Yamhill, July 16, 1867.

DEAR DR. HENLEY—It is with sincere gratitude I undertake to write to you, what your Royal Balsam has done for me. For the last 12 years I have been [illegible] with a severe cough and what also some of the physicians called the Bronchitis, and have spent a fortune to get cured, trying all the physicians and remedies I could get to no purpose. Through the influence of my neighbors (for you have a great name with them here,) I got a bottle of your Royal Balsam, and finding that it relieved me considerable I sent for a half dozen more. And now after one month using it I am perfectly cured. I gained ten pounds within a month and feel quite a different man. I send you this for publication for the benefit of humanity, that through my experience others in affliction may be relieved as I have been. Yours truly, WILLIAM DOTY.

From Sophia M. Holman.

DEAR DR. HENLEY—It is my duty to inform you and the public, what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my children. Two of them had a very bad cough and cold, I got a bottle of the Royal Balsam, and gave them some at bedtime and some in the morning, and that was all that was needed to cure them. I was astonished at not hearing them cough again, but so it was. I find if you give it in larger doses it will make the children throw up in an instant, and I think every mother ought to have a bottle of your Royal Balsam in the house, in case a child should get the croup for which it is a sure remedy, as it acts like magic on children. What I have seen and heard from my neighbors about the Royal Balsam I would sooner depend on it than on any prescription from any physician. I have lost two children within the last year of the same disease, had I had at the time some of the Royal Balsam I am confident my dear ones would be alive now. I shall always recommend it to all my friends, for I consider it a blessing and Godsend to mankind.

Yours truly, SOPHIA M. HOLMAN.

From Drs. Bell & Parker.

We have sold a great deal of Medicine since we have been in business, and now have fifteen different kinds of Expectorants for sale. But Dr. Henley's Royal Balsam takes the palm from all. In fact, we sell six bottles of Royal Balsam to one of any other kind—and really it seems of no use to keep any other. During our experience we have never seen any medicine that gives the satisfaction the Royal Balsam does, as is proven by the results daily coming in from the country of old Chronic cases, when nothing else would remove the dreadful cough they had. I find it is good for Bronchitis and Asthma. We acknowledge it is a pleasure to sell medicine that gives such universal satisfaction.

BELL & PARKER, Druggists, Oregon City.

From W. F. Barber.

DR. HENLEY—Dear Sir: I had the Asthma for the last four years, so bad that it came near choking me. I tried all the patent medicines recommended for the cure of Asthma without doing me the least good, till I was told to try some of your Royal Balsam, which on several afflicted with the same disease, has performed wonders. I am using it now for a week and strange to say I have not experienced anything since, and I really believe that I am perfectly cured, anyhow I shall never be without a bottle of the Royal Balsam in the house in case of a similar attack, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all afflicted with the same disease.

I am Yours truly, W. F. BARBER.

From J. H. Morrill.

DEAR DR. HENLEY—I think it but justice to you that these few lines should be made known to the public, for there is so much humbug going on in patent medicines and quack nostrums now-a-days that I had lost all faith in everything in the shape of medicine. I was affected with what is called Bronchitis for the last thirty years, I coughed and wheezed for an hour at a time; I tried some of the best physicians in the Atlantic States and on this coast, all to no purpose. I could get no relief, and I really thought there was no relief for me in the world. I was induced to try a bottle of your Royal Balsam and it had a most remarkable effect on me, and before I had used up four bottles, the cough left me and I can talk as loud as anybody; my wife and neighbors don't know what to make of it. My opinion is that if they knew the value of the Royal Balsam there is not a family in the country that would be without it, I think there is not a better medicine in existence for Bronchitis or cough than the Royal Balsam, and I conscientiously recommend to all so afflicted to give it a fair trial.

I remain yours, truly, J. H. MORRILL.
